Accreditation of digital intelligence training programs for workers or trainer training programs

Workers are eager to tackle new professional challenges, and companies are seeking new talents in digital intelligence, whether business or technical/scientific.

To support their efforts, scale ai offers training organizations (CEGEPs, universities, non-profits) the possibility of obtaining accreditation for digital intelligence training (business, technical or scientific) with a focus on on-the-job training to develop or enhance skills in managing or programming tools using digital intelligence.
